Listener responses to The Word Today Burmese:

- Through Burmese The Word Today, I read the message about “Judge” and I really received spiritual strength in my heart. I thank this program for having the opportunity to read it and for teaching us the applicable qualities of the church and its members.
- The explanations about baptism in Burmese The Word Today helps me to understand its meaning. I took baptism but I was totally ignorant about it. Due to this explanation, I come to understand baptism is the religious ritual which gives peace to the soul as Jesus Christ preached, “My yoke is easy. My burden is light.” I can never thank you enough for taking pains to explain with love for us to have such a good example as your explanation.
- I received spiritual strength indeed from Burmese The Word Today. We believers are soldiers. According to the program, we have to hold the sword which is God’s Word and march forward. We must try and live to be good witnesses; to be loyal to the best friend Jesus and to defeat the enemy in the spiritual warfare.
- Through Burmese The Word Today, I received much spiritual strength from exhortation and testimony in order for us to share God’s grace equally with love by means of feeding the poor and the hungry; by taking care of orphans and widows; by loving each other which is resulted to manifest God’s mercy, grace and love.
- I thank this Burmese The Word Today especially for clarifying clearly about two distinct types of good shepherd and bad shepherd. I am also very glad to hear you telling me that we have to be cautious not to believe in false gods.
